CADIZ COURT

Term To Conclude To-day And Judge Hanbery Will Go to Clinton.

After being in session for two weeks, the January term of the Trigg Circuit Court will likely adjourn Saturday, and Judge Hanbery will probably go to Clinton Monday to hold a special term of court at that place, says the Record.

In the case of W. M. Finley against R. K. Boyd, of the Cumberland river country, who was suing for $96 which he claimed Boyd owed him on a mussel shell contract, the jury yesterday afternoon gave a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $90.

The suit of Sidney Wallace against Spencer Piercy for $1,500 for slander, resulted in a verdict of $50 for the plaintiff.

J. W. McKinney, Rev. Sam Sumner and J. W. Larkins were appointed Tuesday as Jury Commissioners for Trigg county by Judge Hanbery for the present year, and yesterday they met and filled the jury wheel. The grand jury returned 24 indictments.

Old Frank Massie, a Pembroke convict sent up for murder, has been paroled from the penitentiary and is back at Pembroke. Massie is one of the nine negroes convicted of the murder of an unknown white man near Pembroke in November, 1903, while the stranger lay sleeping by a camp fire. He has served 8 years in the Eddyville prison of a life sentence. Of the murderous gang, Geo. Holland was hanged, two turned State's evidence and six were sent to the penitentiary. One of them has died in prison. Massie is nearly 70 years old.

TAKEN OFF

Nashville Accommodation To
No Longer Run On Sundays.

An order has been entered discontinuing the Sunday run of the Hopkinsville and Nashville accommodation on the L. & N. Railroad. The Sunday train was put on about four years ago and the travel has become heavier on that day than any other day in the week, but for some reason it is to be taken off after this week. Capt. Moody is the present conductor and V. E. Watson is brakeman. Capt. Moody lives in Nashville and Mr. Watson in this city. When the train was put on Capt. F. C. Gephardt was the conductor and now his home in this city. He is now on one of the Dixie Flyer trains.

The through trains going South at 5:40 and 9:03 a. m. will do the local business on Sunday.

MEXICAN INSURGENTS

Fulmination is Issued Which

sional President

AMERICANS ARE IMPERILED

Three Men and a Woman Locked up Without Food or Water For a Day.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 2.—With nearly a score of victims dead or dying, among them two Americans, the Mexican city of Ciudad Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, in possession of 600 soldiers of the federal garrison, who mutinied Wednesday night, and are continuing now their preparations for war in behalf of Gen. Zapata, the insurrection leader, who is at the head of a rebel army in the state of Morelos. The mutineers are leading on every hand.

Fifteen persons including four Americans, three men and a woman, are imprisoned in the Casino saloon. Emilio Vasquez Gomez was named for provisional president of the Mexican republic and President Francisco I. Madero was condemned in bitter terms in a proclamation circulated yesterday among the revolting Juarez garrison and members of the new revolutionary junta in El Paso.

The proclamation is dated "Revolutionary Camp in Chihuahua, February 1, 1912," and bears the signatures of Louis Fernandez and Col. L. Salazar, as "chiefs of the forces of the north."

The proclamation is taken here as another indication of the possible connection between the revolt of the Suarez garrison and the Zapata movement in southern Mexico. It is addressed to the "Valiant sons of Chihuahua," and recites how they were among the first to second the Madero revolution of November, 1910, to "overthrow the tyranny which for more than thirty years joked at our rights."

President Madero is criticised especially for "Installing in office Vice-President Pino Suarez against the will of the whole republic."

The proclamation pledges adherence to the "plan of Tacubaya" and declares the elections of the first and fifteenth of October null and void, the congress dissolved, and its act void and the motives of its adherents to be "the election to the presidency of Emilio Vasquez Gomez, who guarantees us, the country and all men that he will comply with the ideals of the last glorious revolution."

Madero Takes Notice.

Mexico City, Feb. 2.—President Madero and his cabinet members now admit that the rebellion headed by Emiliano Zapata has grown to such proportions as to make it the most formidable menace yet faced by the present government. The conduct of the campaign against the Zapatistas will be pushed.

The fool Democrats of the Colorado legislature who have wasted two years without electing a Senator are talking about agreeing on a woman for the place.

Senator Lorimer, in concluding his testimony before the Senate Investigating Committee, estimated that a candidate for Congress can conduct a "fairly lively campaign" for $10,000.

One battleship will be authorized by Congress this year in spite of the action taken by the Democratic House caucus, according to views expressed by numerous Representatives.

Robert Ewing, member for Middle Tennessee of the Woodrow Wilson State Committee, tendered his resignation as such, because of the controversy between his kinsman, Mr. Watterson, and the New Jersey Governor.

On being refused admittance, a Turkish mob stormed a Bulgarian monastery, near Muskaba, and beheaded nine monks who were assembled in prayer there. The residents of the place swore vengeance upon them and a racial conflict is believed to be impending. The slaughter of the monks is believed to have been inspired by the blowing up of the Turkish mosque a few weeks ago.

AMUSEMENTS

"Gay New York," the underlined musical comedy attraction at Holland's Opera House Feb. 8, is a translation from the German, and had a phenomenally successful run in one of the principal theatres in Berlin. The fact of its having achieved a signal triumph in this country is probably due in no small measure to the formidable array of talent engaged in its interest. Out of the thirty or more talented people engaged in "Gay New York," most of whom are girls of beauty as well as cleverness, it is only necessary to pick the names of Thos. J. Grady, Wanda Stuart, Harlan Briggs, Julia Calhoun, Samuel West, Ella Wilson, Lee C. Hollen, Alice Creighton, Chas. Kirchner, Jessie Keeley, Paul Michell, Edyth Imen, Jos. C. Birnes, Laura Hastings, Aleah Fay, Wood Sisters, Trocadero Trio, to form a respectable estimate of the Company of distinction entrusted with the fun and music sensational surprises to be expected.

A Plain Inquiry.

Interesting Letter To Her

IN FAR AWAY SIAM.

Life of A Missionary Told In Most Entertaining Manner.

Chieng Mai, Laos, May 2, 1911.
This fearfully hot weather, I want to sleep all the time. I suppose if you had seen me playing three sets of tennis this afternoon, you would have held up your hands in horror; but it's the only time today I have been comfortable. Exercise is the only thing that makes the heat at all bearable, for me.

Yesterday, Christina Harris was seven years old, and as all the other children were on the hill, she had to have a party of "grownups." So all the missionaries went over to drink tea. Her grandmother gave her fifteen rupees (about five dollars), and she tried to buy the MacClures' baby with it.

A map is up here, from Bangkok, to see about putting up an electric plant here. I think it would be a fine thing, though they would have to build the house very high, for the rainy season.

Mrs. Campbell is laid up with a sprained ankle; she sprained it while playing with some of the school-children. It is nothing serious, but she has to go on crutches.

I began today to train the girls on some drills, for the close of school. We have another month of school, then a few days on the hill before normal, which will last a month. I believe that will be only half a day's session, though. Marie Collins' school closes day after tomorrow, and she is coming right on over here, for a few weeks. But I don't think she has a very long vacation, and will have to go back, later.

I am just forming a taste for a very wholesome fruit, that I did not like last year,—the "bale-fruit." It has a hard shell that must be broken with a hatchet, and the inside is a deep yellow, and tastes like a very dry peach, with a dressing of turpentine. Occasionally one may get a spoonful that is delicious. And the next mouthful has so much of the clear gum in it, it tastes exactly like the gum of the pine tree. It is about as embarrassing to eat in company as an orange; for it is full of seeds, that are coated with the gum, and it is almost impossible to get them out of your mouth, they are so sticky. I don't believe I would ever crave the fruit, but every one says they have a great medicinal value, so I have been eating them this year, and they improve on acquaintance, at any rate one learns to endure them.

I was very much amused this evening: The school "dunce,"—a great big, uncouth looking girl, came in and reported that one of the other girls, about half her size, had hit her on the legs with a switch. Miss Buck summoned the other girl, who said she was only playing; and she is really one of the gentlest girls in school. I looked her in the eye, and in my sternest voice said "you ought to be ashamed, a great big girl like you, to hit a little girl like Chan Ta." Then turning to Chan Ta, I said, "the next time any of these big girls hit you, come tell me, and I will whip them." Chan Ta didn't deny the other girl's story, that she had hit her, only in fun, so they were both dismissed.

Chieng Mai, Laos, May 24, 1911.
I have just finished reading your good letter; a lot of papers came from both you and Mrs. Jones, but I did not dare to begin on them, for fear I would not get to my letter-writing this evening. I have been getting very sleepy early, these nights, on account of a little trip I took last week.

Last year, Dr. McGilvary went to a little village,—San Pong,—about seven miles from here, to work. It was absolutely new territory, as no missionary had ever been there before.

The people were very poor, and Dr. and Mrs. McGilvary have been feeding twelve families for over a year. We raised money to build them a chapel, but a church had ever been organized, and before a single person was ready to be received as a Christian. But I think Dr. McGilvary felt that it was probably the last work he would ever do, and was anxious that they should have a chapel, so it was mainly to please him that the money was given. This was finished several months ago, and a day school was started. Last Sunday the chapel was dedicated, and the new members received and baptized. Through the kindness of Mr. Yates, I was furnished a horse and saddle, and went down Saturday morning with Mrs. Collins and Marie, Dr. Campbell and Dr. McKean. After about five miles on a good road, we cut across the rice-fields, and rode a couple of miles more. We had not gone very far across the field before we met people coming from all directions, to the service. We arrived a little after nine, and received a warm welcome. The chapel had been hung with Siamese flags, and pennants which the people had made. Inside, the walls were festooned with garlands of leaves, with bunches of red and yellow blossoms, hung at intervals, outside the chapel, and joining the front, had been erected a booth, covered with palm-leaves, and with a carpet of smaller leaves.

Just before service began, one of the women sent in the loveliest cross I ever saw. The cross-pieces were made of bamboo stalk, which was covered with, but not concealed by, fronds of yellow orchid. At each end of the cross, was a spray of pink orchid. Through the mass of flowers, the light green and yellow of the banana stalk shone like onyx. This lovely design remained fresh, the two days we were there.

The chapel was packed, both morning and afternoon, and we had no more interested listeners, than a dozen priests, who were conspicuous in their yellow robes, during our whole stay. The music was a great drawing-card, and the children of the village showed that they had been very carefully drilled, by the way in which they sang the songs. The afternoon meeting was almost entirely singing, and after the service was dismissed, the people came back again, and begged for more music. That night, Dr. McKean showed his magic lantern pictures, which was very wonderful to them. Dr. Campbell took his graphophone, which was also something new. He had had that going all afternoon, and just about dusk a little girl came in begging to hear the "baww saw" (tells a song); she had had to tend the buffalo all day, and hadn't been able to come to the service. The piece they enjoyed most of all was the "laughing song," which was in a universal language.

At the close of the afternoon service, there were games, and the old people enjoyed them as much as the little ones. We overheard one father say disdainfully to his child, "You never saw anything like these games? Just wait till we get home, and we will do them all." The next day was Sunday, but between services I could see the youngsters still practicing the "tug of war," etc. I suppose it would be unwise to try to teach them too much at once about proper Sabbath observance, etc.

The next day our native Christians came from the city and nearby villages in great numbers, and I think their presence was very impressive to the new believers. The chapel would not begin to hold the people, so the preacher stood at the front of the chapel, so both the people inside and out could hear him. Twenty-one new members were baptized and received into the church, and then the Lord's Supper was celebrated. At the afternoon service, twenty-five children were baptized. Dr. and Mrs. M.—had had jackets made for them, the first some of them had ever had, I suppose, and it was funny to see them shedding them, during the service. I think most of them who were old enough to undress themselves, did so before the service was over.

There was one little fellow, just beginning to toddle, who attended every service, on the hip of his older sister. He was so cunning, and I went up to his sister and asked if he was a boy or girl. She informed me of his sex, and then held him up to prove it. Well, Sunday afternoon, his father brought him in to be baptized. He was bare to the waist, but they had gotten a bright yellow cloth, and made a "padding" for him. Within a few minutes he had it off, and was toddling around, quite naked. When his turn came to be baptized, the preacher had to hunt him up. And directly he came running back to his father, head and face dripping, who gravely wiped him with the yellow cloth he had in his hand.

That afternoon, after service, the head man of the village came in to call, so the school-children had to sing for him. I had noticed one little sturdy naked fellow running around, about three years of age, but I imagine he could hardly talk. Imagine my surprise, then, to see him sitting up with the others, naked, and his new jacket on top of his head, yelling at the top of his voice, and his face all screwed up in a frown, from the effort he was making. And he went through piece after piece, every word and every note right. But the head man noticed him too, and said something to him, which frightened him so, he went home bawling, and his singing was spoiled.

We got up at half-past four the next morning, and rode into the city before breakfast. Since we left, word came from Dr. M.—that early that morning, seven women came in and professed their faith in Christ. This was good news, indeed, for one disappointing thing about the work had been, that the women would not come in. I think only three women had come in with their husbands.

Tomorrow, Mrs. Collins and Marie are going out to Bethlehem, eight miles from here, for a week, and I expect to go out for over Sunday. There are a good many girls down there, who ought to be in school and are not, so I hope I can do something in that line.

This is a great day in Chieng Mai, in the English colony. The English consul is to celebrate the coronation with a garden party. There are to be boat-races, fire-works, and other games in the afternoon, and a Burmese theater in the evening. Miss Buck, Marie Collins, and I will take dinner with the Kerrs,—they live near the Consulate,—and go back in the evening, to the theater. The boat course has been laid out in the river for some distance, with flags of all nations, and the men are busy practicing for the races. I think they will wear themselves out, before time for the show. A big float has been made, decorated with flags, and full of sailors, and is now in the water, going up and down stream, exciting the wonder of hundreds of natives. We have been hearing the music all morning, too. I could very easily dispense with that part of the entertainment, as the native music soon grows monotonous. Just now, it looks as if rain might spoil the show, I hope it won't.

It is past ten o'clock, so I must stop and get to bed. I have to begin work early these mornings, now that I have two extra periods, practicing the drills. You never saw such a delighted crowd as my young ones. At the end of every lesson, a chorus of voices exclaims "Moo-an" (pleasant.) It would amuse you, to see them learning how to schottische.

THREE THINGS YOU NEED..

First—

"Kentuckian"

A virile, new newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Second—

Technical World Magazine

is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to fill away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the feats of engineers and explorers, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What Jack London says—"I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third—

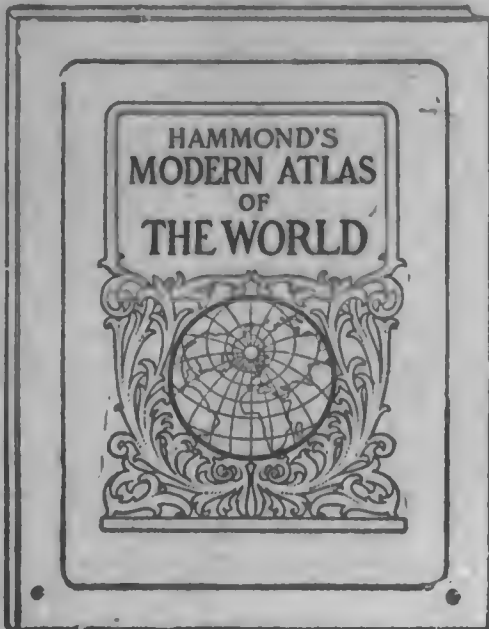

A Fine Atlas

This one is just off the presses. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures. 128 pages of 3 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double-page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/4. Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $3.00. A splendid gift.

AN AUTHOR IN A GARRET

Wearing Old Clothes and Eating Cheap Meals Was No Hardship, to Moore.

In Paris I had lived very much as I lived in Victoria street, but it had never occurred to me that I showed any merit by accepting, without murmuring, the laborious life in the Temple that a sudden reverse of fortune had forced upon me; it was no suffering for me to live in a garret, wearing old clothes, and spending from two shillings to half a crown on my dinner, because I felt, and instinctively, that that is the natural life of a man of letters; and I can remember my surprise when my brother told me one day that my special agent had said he never knew anybody so economical as George.

Some time after Tom Rutledge himself came panting up my stairs, and during the course of conversation regarding certain large sums of money which I heard of for the first time, he said: "Well, you have spent very little money during the last few years."

And when I spoke of the folly of other landlords, he added: "There are very few who would be content to live in a cockloft like this."

And looking round my room I realized that what he said was true; I was living in a cockloft, bitterly cold in winter and stifling in summer; the sun beating fiercely on the windows in the afternoon, obliging me to write in my shirt sleeves.—George Moore in "Ave."

Patriotism.

The priest of the Serbian Orthodox church at Wilmerding, Pa., made a Memorial day address in the town cemetery last spring. At the close of his speech in Serbian he said in English:

"I deem it my holiest duty to kiss this consecrated ground upon which your heroic ancestors shed their blood, and in which their bones are laid to rest. I deem it my Christian duty to offer God a prayer for the repose of their souls, just as if they were my own blood."

Then he kneeled, kissed the ground and offered a prayer for the repose of those who died for their fatherland. When he arose he said: "Glory to the dead soldiers, and prosperity to the American people."

The incident was related by Peter Roberts, director of the immigration work for the Y. M. C. A., to a group of Kansas City men at the association rooms yesterday. It emphasizes once more the fact that Americanism is a matter of the spirit, not of the blood.—Kansas City Times.

WILL BOLSTERED HIS CREDIT

Not Until Woolen Jobber Failed Did His Creditors Get Wise to His Trick.

Credit men in the woolen trade are discussing an interesting bankruptcy case that was recently compounded out of court at a settlement of about 25 cents on the dollar; and some of the credit men, autobiographically reminiscent, are bewailing the fact that, to avoid the slang of other trades, "a victim is born every minute." These are the credit men who credited.

It seems that a well-known jobber in woollens became ill some months ago and grew worse and worse until, finally, the men in the trade heard that he was dying. About that time the jobber sent for a lawyer who—even outside of his own heraldings—was credited with doing about half of the litigation of that most litigious of trades. The jobber, groaning heavily, made his will. He disposed of about $500,000 in it. Some went to charity, some went to old business friends, and a little went to the jobber's own family.

Soon afterward a turn for the better set in in the jobber's condition. Presently he was walking briskly about his business again, buying now from this mill, now from that—but always buying. He bought so much that several credit men became restive under his orders and began to consider the wisdom of holding back shipments on terms more akin to cash. One of them, however, happened to mention his suspicions to the lawyer who had drawn up the jobber's will.

"Have no fear," the lawyer reassured him, adding, by way of confidence, "I myself had an altogether erroneous notion of his finances until several weeks ago when he was ill. At that time I drew up his will for him, and was amazed at the extent of his fortune." And he divulged more confidences.

Good news travels just as fast as bad news in the woolen trade, and presently every credit man in the business knew of the jobber's will and his $500,000. And the jobber continued to buy and buy, and buy still more, on ever easier terms. Then, when he had bought enough, he failed, and that, too, in almost as respectable a figure as the fortune in his late reputed will.

Good Advice.

Former Mayor Dunne of Chicago in a recent address to young men, preached the doctrine of sturdy democracy.

"People bother too much," he said, "about their ancestors. If you believed all you heard you'd think that every other man was descended from William the Conqueror or Charlemagne. My advice to a young man would be this: Don't bother about your descent, unless you are an aviator."

IS LIKE LITTLE KINGDOM

Family Life is Wholesome Because It Has Bracing Qualities of Commonwealth.

The modern writers who have suggested, in a more or less open manner, that the family is a bad institution, have generally confined themselves to suggesting, with much sharpness, bitterness, or pathos, that perhaps the family is a good institution because it is uncongenial. It is wholesome precisely because it contains so many divergencies and varieties. It is, as the sentimentalists say, like a little kingdom, and, like most other little kingdoms, it is generally in a state of something resembling anarchy. It is exactly because our brother George is not interested in our religious difficulties, but is interested in the Trocadero restaurant, that the family has some of the bracing qualities of the commonwealth. It is precisely because our uncle Henry does not approve of the theatrical ambitions of our sister Sarah that the family is like humanity. The men and women who, for good reasons and bad, revolt against the family, are, for good reasons and bad, simply revolting against mankind. Aunt Elizabeth is unreasonable, like mankind. Papa is excitable, like mankind. Our younger brother is mischievous, like mankind. Grandpa is stupid, like the world; he is old, like the world.—Gilbert Chesterton.

IN PRAISE OF PUMPKIN PIE

Editor of Yonkers Statesman Pays Deserving Tribute to Great American Institution.

There is another Richmond in the pie field and the pie editor of the Ohio State Journal would do well to look to his hauberk and his tanterls. The new knight is Edwin A. Oliver, editor of the Yonkers Statesman, father of the paragraphic joke, and he prances into the arena armed cap-a-pie, as it were, and with his pie knife couchant.

Listen to his praise of the flaky crust with the pumpkin filler: "When one takes a huge bit of it in his mouth and his happy thoughts unfold into a dream and he hears afar 'the breaking waves dash high and a stern and rockbound coast, and the woods against a stormy sky their giant branches tossed,' one feels how happily related to a brave historic event is the modest pumpkin pie. It came 'when the conquerors came, and they shook the depths of the desert gloom with their hymns of lofty cheer.' This is cheer—the sunbeams imbued in pumpkin pie."

Device of a Brandy Smuggler.

To conceal dutiable goods among free goods, in any importation, is the prime offense against the customs laws; yet the high rates of duty on some articles, such as tobacco and spirits, offer great temptation to illicit traders, who employ all sorts of artifices to smuggle—or evade the notice of the customs officers.

When silk was dutiable women were the chief offenders, and as they sometimes wound the contraband article around their persons, under their ordinary clothes, it was found necessary to employ female searchers, now no longer brought into requisition. One of the latter, on one occasion, made a curious discovery.

A female smuggler had had constructed—but not for running silk contraband—an India rubber dress for wearing under her ordinary clothes. She appeared, when this contrivance was in operation, to be a very fat woman; in reality, she was abnormally thin. But the India rubber underwear was double and hollow, and the space between the skins, so to speak, was filled with brandy!

Early Anti-Trust Law.

An old statute has been unearthed by the Cincinnati Enquirer and applied to present conditions. If the law today were what it used to be in the early days of Kentucky and were carried out we might see Wall street dotted with men who had lost their ears for conspiring to restrain trade. A statute of some 363 years ago, which was intended to put a stop to the meat trust, the brewers' trust, the bread trust and the fruit trust of those days, makes the Sherman act look gentle. This statute became law in Virginia and therefore in Kentucky when Kentucky was formed out of Virginia. It is fair to point out that the statute of Edward VI. also went after any laborers who got together to keep up wages or limit the hours of work, so that it was markedly in opposition to the beliefs of our own day. Moreover, we violate no confidence in saying that it was enforced more violently against the laborers than against the dealers who kept up prices. Kentucky, it may be well to add, has since repealed the act.—Collier's.

Wit of Augustus Thomas.

"The trouble with amateur careers," said Mr. Thomas, on one occasion, "is that the gray so rarely matches the wall paper." A fatuous argument he characterized as "like a chorus girl's tights, which touch every point and cover nothing." When Mr. Thomas was rehearsing "The Witching Hour," one of the management stopped the players, and, turning to the author, remarked: "I think this would be a good place for some witty dialogue."

"Yes," replied Mr. Thomas. "As for instance?"—Channing Pollock in "The Footlights—Fore and Aft."

Shut Down.

After being in operation for about six years, Center Furnace, in the western part of this county, was closed out Wednesday by J. P. White & Co. for an indefinite period. The slow sale of iron for the past year or so is the cause of this action, and they have quite a good supply of iron on hand now.

The machinery, etc., of the furnace will not be molested, but will remain intact as it now is, but all the teams, wagons, and property of that kind that can be conveniently disposed of will be sold.—Record.

Another Theolog.

Rev. Fountain A. Sanders, of this county, left Wednesday for Elkton to enter Vanderbilt Training School. This is the third young minister of this county that has gone to this school within the past few months for the purpose of better preparing themselves for the important work which they have taken up, the others being Revs. A. F. Hanberry, who left last week, and S. M. Bailey, who entered the school last fall.—Record.

Student Missing.

At the request of Theodore H. Twisten, proctor of Cornell university, the police in many cities are looking for Charles Jones Evans, a freshman, who has been missing from the university since January 14, Evans, while out skating, had a bad fall, and later complained of severe pains in his head. He suddenly left, and he was seen boarding a Lehigh Valley train going to Philadelphia, leaving the train at Wayne Junction, just outside of that city.

KY. PUBLIC SERVICE CO.

Fitch Bros. of Bowling Green in Control of The New Corporation.

A merger of the gas and lighting plants of four Kentucky cities, under the name of the Kentucky Public Service Company, was effected Thursday when articles of incorporation combining the companies at Frankfort, Bowling Green, Owensboro and Hopkinsville were filed with the Circuit Clerk of Jefferson county. The outstanding capital stock of the concerns totals $380,000. The men in control of the company are Roland, Lindsey and Henry Fitch, of Bowling Green, and F. Austin, of Frankfort.

The companies merged and the amount of the capital stock of each are as follows: Owensboro Gas Light Company, $85,000; Bowling Green Gas Light Company, $60,000; Capital Gas & Electric Light Company, Frankfort, $110,000; City Gas Company, Hopkinsville, $125,000. With the exception of the Owensboro company all the concerns supply electric lighting as well as fuel and illuminating gas.

WELL AGAIN

Freed From Shooting Pains Spinal Weakness, Dizziness, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms; shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the United States, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors. I feel it my duty to tell you these facts. My heart is full of gratitude to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my health."—Mrs. HARRIET E. WAMPLER, 524 S. Ransom Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Consider Well This Advice. No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

New Horse and Mule Barn

Situated about one mile from city limits,

On the Clarksville Pike.

We now have about 60 mules on hand. If you are in the market for some first-class farm mules, worth the money, it will be to your interest to visit our barn and get prices before buying elsewhere. Our expenses are very small—we feel like we are in a position to sell stock cheaper than anyone. Come get prices and be convinced.

We will at all times carry a good supply of Farm mules, Cotton, Mines and Pit mules.

We have come to stay, and in view of that fact realize that in order to build up a substantial and profitable business a Square Deal will be our motto. We are also breeders of Shetland Ponies, and have some extra nice ones for sale.

Mr. Tom Clark, formerly with Layne & Leavell, will be with us, and will appreciate a call at any time from his old customers and friends. Remember the place, Clarksville Pike, one mile from city limits; and that competition is the life of trade. Cumberland Phone No. 34.

P. S.—PARTIES WITHOUT CONVEYANCE WILL BE MET AT HOPKINSVILLE WITH CARRIAGE:

High School Professor, Wanted for Bigamy, Still Missing.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 31.—Interest in the whereabouts of Prof. Robert Altman, the missing High School professor, charged with bigamy, continues unabated. Telegrams from Chicago report that he was at the States Hotel Friday and Monday. Baltimore information states he was married there in 1908 to Miss Betrice Grolman, who with her infant daughter is now in Bluefields, W. Va.

The date of Altman's second marriage seems to be doubtful, as the couple said they were married in Michigan, and the girl's mother said they were married in New York in 1910. No event of years has created such a sensation as this, as the young people were bright and charming, well bred and welcomed everywhere.

Every effort is being made to locate Altman, but it is uncertain which State would prosecute him, Maryland, where he was wedded first, West Virginia, where his first wife is, or Kentucky, where the trouble had its denouement.

WINTER NOT OVER.

Momentous Question Is Settled By Arcetomys Monax.

The most momentous question of the year was settled yesterday when the groundhog emerged from his hibernation and seeing his shadow returned for six weeks more. The weather was cold and clear and every opportunity was afforded for seeing shadows. According to this, the Legislature and the cold weather will be contemporaries until the middle of March.

Mortality Great.

Begin at First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. E. B. Landis has secured the services of Rev. Wallace Clift, an evangelist and singer, for the series of meetings to be carried on at the First Presbyterian church, beginning to-morrow morning and continuing for about ten days. Mr. Clift's home is at Chattanooga, Tenn., but he has recently been called to the pastorate of a church in this (Princeton) Presbytery and it is thought he will accept the call at once. Before his installation, however, he was prevailed upon to come here and conduct the singing and otherwise assist Rev. Landis in his meeting. Mr. Clift is said to be a fine conductor and soloist as well as a preacher of great power. The excellent choir of Mr. Landis' church, augmented by several other good voices, under the direction of Mr. Clift, will make the praise services, to begin twenty minutes before each sermon, such as cannot fail to attract all lovers of sacred music. En passant, Mr. Landis is not only a man of more than ordinary ability as a speaker but has had much experience as an evangelist, and has had great success wherever he has preached the Word. Everybody is invited. Watch the papers for future announcements. Services afternoon and evening, beginning at 2:30 and 7 o'clock.

The young people were married by Bishop E. E. Penick at the Martin home and left for a visit to Lexington before coming home.

The groom is a young man of the highest promise, and from his childhood has been noted for his strength of intellect and oratorical ability. He is destined to rise rapidly in his chosen profession.

He and his bride will be cordially welcomed to Hopkinsville.

MATRIMONIAL

Three Weddings in County This Week.

H. J. Dickinson and Miss Gertrude Haley, of the Haley's Mill country, were married in the County Clerk's office Thursday. Judge Knight performed the ceremony.

G. B. Fowler and Miss Cora Nablette, of Hopkins county, former attendants at the Western Asylum, were married here Thursday by Rev. A. R. Kasey.

Walter Powell and Miss Emma Word, young people living near Fruit Hill, were united in marriage Thursday night.

Davis-Haskins.

Roy Davis, youngest son of Esq. W. T. Davis, and Miss Bessie Haskins, were married near Crofton last week and have gone to housekeeping at the Davis homestead which Mr. Davis has bought from his father. All of Esq. Davis' children have now reached maturity and are married and he and his wife will move, probably to this city.

Minstrels Tonight.

"Trombone Buddy" Moredock, the inimitable little funmaker with the trombone who has won an enviable position as a "chaser of the blues," and his partner, J. Herbert Watson, are perhaps the youngest successful theatrical managers in the United States today.

Heading their own company, they have surrounded themselves with an organization composed of the best talent in the minstrel world, including the season's sensational female impersonator, Master Clinton Delmar, The Chiquet Brothers, refined purveyors of comedy and music, The Delmars, singers and dancers of merit, and nearly a score of others.

Boys Corn Club.

Those who desire to enter the Christian County Corn Club for 1912 must send their names, age and address to the County Superintendent of schools before Feb. 15. The Commissioner of Agriculture must know the number of boys early, in order that he may know how much corn to send to each county. This year each boy must plant one acre of corn.

Purely Personal

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wash and daughter, Miss Nell Wash, accompanied by Harper Boyd, of Cadiz, left here Wednesday for Tampa, Florida, to spend some time visiting the family of Mrs. Wash's brother, Mr. W. T. Boyd, and other relatives.

Dr. J. W. McClanahan, who has had charge of a drug store at Cumberland City, Tenn., for several years, has given up his position temporarily on account of ill health. He is spending some time with his daughter, Mrs. S. S. Jameson, of this city.—Pembroke Journal.

Dr. J. E. Stone and wife have gone to New Orleans, La., where the former will take a special post-graduate course in a medical institution. They will be absent a month.

Frank Rives has returned from a business trip to Southern Texas.

B. Cap Schmidt has accepted a position in the hardware department of the F. A. Yost Co.

Elected By The Athenaeum Thursday Night.

The meeting of the Athenaeum was a most interesting one Thursday night, at Hotel Latham. The only paper was by Mr. Ira L. Smith, who wrote a most entertaining sketch of Bill Nye and his Humor. He handled his subject in splendid style and his article was one of the best the society has heard. It was discussed by the members for an hour. In the absence of President Geo. E. Gary, the meeting was presided over by Col. Jouett Henry. Those present were: Jouett Henry, T. C. Underwood, A. H. Eckles, L. H. Davis, D. A. Clark, S. Y. Trimble, H. G. Brownell, Geo. C. Abbott, Chas. M. Meacham, T. J. McReynolds, John Stites, H. D. Smith, H. C. Smith, Ira L. Smith, T. W. Blakey, J. W. Downer, W. T. Tandy, Frank Rives, A. G. Chapman, Austin Bell, H. W. Linton, R. F. McDaniel.

The two vacancies were filled by the election of former members John C. Duffy and Dr. Manning Brown.

Death of an Infant.

The two-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Grandville Landermilk died Thursday night at their home on West Seventeenth street. Services were held at the residence at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Rev. C. M. Thompson and the interment took place in Riverside Cemetery.

Goes in Confectionery Business.

Geo. N. Duffer has purchased of W. A. Davis his confectionery next door to the Princess theater, Ninth Street, and will take possession Feb. 10. Mr. Duffer will buy an entirely new stock of goods and will be ready for business on the above date.

Very Low.

Maj. John W. Breathitt was very low yesterday afternoon, with death evidently near at hand. He is 87 years old and has been in feeble health for a year or more.

G. C. Carr has been appointed postmaster at Linton, Trigg County, vice S. W. McNichols, removed.

Interest Increasing Rapidly, as Contest Approaches.

As announced last week the High School Oratorical Preliminary will be held next Thursday evening at the Westminster Presbyterian church. Interest in this contest is growing rapidly and tickets are already on sale. A small admission will be charged for the benefit of the High School Athletic Association. A full announcement of all the details will be made next week.

The contestants and their respective subjects are as follows:

John A. Dotson—Watchman, What of the Night?

Thomas D. Roberts—Lest We Forget.

Joseph E. Gary—Kentucky.

Will R. Cate—The Thorn and the Myrtle.

Henry I. Eager—The Gathering of the Eagles.

Edward D. Moseley—The Music of the Age.

Calvin M. Thompson—The Home.

TWO IN JAIL.

Negroes Are Charged With Horses Stealing.

Marshal R. E. Long, of Crofton, on Thursday, arrested Sebastian Clemens and Webber Garrett, both colored, near Old Petersburg and the negroes were brought here and lodged in jail to await an examining trial. The warrant charges horse stealing. The arrest has some connection with the affair near Empire last Sunday in which one of Mr. G. C. Bowles' livery horses was killed.

Woman's Greatest Trouble

Big Sander, Tenn.—Mrs. Larry Carroll, of this place, writes: "Every two weeks, I had to go to bed and stay there several days. I suffered untold misery. Nothing seemed to help me until I tried Cardui, the woman's tonic. Although I had been afflicted with womanly weaknesses for seven years, Cardui helped me more than anything else ever did. It is surely the best tonic for women on earth." Weakness is woman's greatest trouble. Cardui is woman's greatest medicine, because it overcomes that weakness and brings back strength. In the past 50 years, Cardui helped over a million women
Try it for your troubles, to-day.

Bound to Get Even.

A 14-year-old French boy, angered
the other morning at being awakened too early by his mother, revenged himself by breaking up the furniture in his room, afterwards mounting to the roof of the house and throwing tiles at the people below.

JOKE WAS ON THE MOTHER

Says Mother Hays for Her Trick at Hopkinsville at the Mar-
Whip.

Edmund Roberts of the "Evansville Nell" company, tells a good story and tells it well. He has the faculty of seeing the funny thing in the little happenings of every day life.

"Last season, in a one night stand in Pennsylvania, I met an old school chum, and not having seen him for years, I was more than pleased to spend as much of my one day with him as I could," says Mr. Roberts.
"He was in the harness business and I spent the best part of the day in the back part of the shop keeping him company, while he worked."

"During the afternoon he had occasion to go to the bank and left me in charge of the place until his return, with a joking rejoinder to sell all I could during his absence."

"He had scarcely gone when in came a lady with four small boys in quarter sizes, she took four straw hats out of a basket and placed one on each small head and handed me a dollar, as there was a sign in the basket stating that they were 25 cents each. She tied the strings under each small chin and left the store."

"I was naturally somewhat elated at my ability as a salesman and when my friend returned, told him of my sale and gave him the dollar. Then he informed me that those hats were for horses during hot weather and he had a good laugh on me. Well I sold a dollar's worth of hats and if the lady ever discovered that the hats were for horses and not for small boys I was not there to hear the fish."

NEW IDEAS ABOUT PARENTS

Becoming One Brings Increased Esteem and Regard for Them as Pillars of Life.

My new responsibility has brought me a variety of new appreciations. As a parent I find I have new sentiments about parents, and increased esteem and regard for them as pillars that uphold life and direct it. Beyond doubt, they are fine for upholding grandchildren. No doubt there would be considerably more grandchildren in our world if there were more grandparents who recognized their responsibilities and made provision, as a matter of course, to meet them. But that does not accord with the lively individualism of our generation. Not only are we all desirous of independent life, but our parents prefer it for us.
Accordingly when we get above the social plane in which independent life for man and wife can be maintained for $20 a week, marriage is apt to come late. There are immense advantages about that social plane in which $20 a week is a complete living, and the wife is cook and housemaid, wife, mother and nurse all in one, and the state provides education, and the doctor adjusts his charges to your income, and all the man has to look after is food, clothes, shelter and pocket money! I hope the people who are born with a call on that phase of existence appreciate their luck. To rise to a $20-a-week phase must be full of satisfaction, but to drop to it is quite another matter. Whatever starting point is dealt out to us, it is from that point that we have got to go on, and, whether we like it or not, the point at which it behooves us to arrive is measured from the point at which we start.—E. S. Martin in Harper's Magazine.

Snug Mosquitoes.

Seated on the furnace in the warm cellar of the intelligent citizen's home, two New Jersey mosquitoes were talking things over.

"They will never do anything to us," said the first. "Before they can be rid of us they will have to get together, and that will take them thousands of years."

"Then, too," said the second, "about the time they do begin to make things unpleasant for us, somebody will organize a Society to Protect Tender Little Insects from the Barbarities of Scientific Savages, and all the sentimental people will join, and we shall be spared many years longer. See the snow falling outside."

"Yes," answered the other mosquito, "Winter has set in at last, and spring will come almost before we know it. Then we shall slip out and lay our little 400 eggs apace in an old flowerpot somewhere and be happy. How lovely and warm it is here."

Her Cradle a Pumpkin.

A giant pumpkin which four-year-old Miss Rolls of Santa Paula uses as a cradle was raised by U. C.
Teague, manager of the Blanchard ranch, and is particularly wonderful from the fact that on the same vine were twelve others weighing an average of 180 pounds each.

As this weighs 230 pounds a little figuring shows that there was over a ton of pumpkins on one vine—2,390 pounds, to be exact. It received no fertilizer or special cultivation. This pumpkin measures seven feet eight inches around the "waist," stands six feet nine inches high and measures in circumference lengthwise ten feet eight inches.—London Strand.

Some Success.

"Did you find the promoter of that get-rich-quick concern?" asked one detective.

"Yes," replied the other.

"Arrested him?"

"No, not yet. He's a mighty ready and convincing man. But I managed to avoid buying any stock from him."

At The WHEEL

By SUSANNE GLENN

Eula Gardner stood on the hotel veranda in a trig brown linen frock and a white felt hat.

"Do you mean to say that you are going on the water this morning?" asked a dozen girls.

"I most assuredly am," answered Eula, glancing out to where crisp little waves flashed saucily on the surface of the bay.

"But consider—the great Fenmore has arrived; we held him with our own eyes. And, oh, Eula, but he is fine to look at!"

"Glad to hear it," she replied brightly, "but what can he gain by sitting out a day like this on the veranda?"

"Think of your complexion, careless child! How will you look in the parlors this evening to the critical eye of an artist, with your face sunburned and your golden curls wind-roughened?"

"One day will not suffice to restore to me my former beauty. I therefore generously leave the coast clear for the rest of you, and continue to enjoy myself!"

With a laugh, she ran down to the pier where her tiny motor boat was tied ready for her.

"She is certainly a wonder with a boat," observed the girls who watched her puff jauntily away.

"She is right when she says she leaves the coast clear for the rest of us, though. These capable, independent sort of girls are never popular with men of artistic temperaments."

And each girl began secretly to wonder in which particular gown she would most resemble the wonderful creations of the great Fenmore's magic brush.

The little white boat with the girl at the wheel sped from one favorite point of the bay to another.

"There's something wrong this morning," said Eula, listening to the beat of the engine.

She headed out into the center of the bay, which chanced to be clear of boats at that hour, and knelt down with her back toward the box to find the trouble.

The skipping became more and more frequent, and the girl's brows were pressed into wrinkles of annoyance.

Suddenly a crash and a cry brought her to her feet. She was headed toward shore, and a little astern lay an overturned skiff, with a man clinging to it.

"Oh," cried the girl, motionless with horror, "what can I do? Hang on, hang on!" she screamed, her presence of mind returning, and she swept back in a big curve toward him.

"Oh," she sobbed, "it is all my fault! If the engine only holds out!"

As she ran up close on the opposite side of the skiff she flung out a life preserver.

"Can you swim?" she called.

"Yes—yes," he nodded back.

She took another circle while the man put on the jacket with one hand, clinging to the boat with the other.

She did not dare stop the engine for fear she could not start it again in its present condition.

"I must tow him ashore," she thought. "There is no use in attempting to get him into the boat—I am too weak, and the boat is too small!"

When she came up the second time she flung out the tow rope, and slowed down the engine as much as she dared.

The man caught the rope with difficulty. All his motions were strangely slow and labored.

With the utmost difficulty she drew him to the side of her craft.

"Do you think you can hang on until we get ashore?" she asked anxiously.

"I'll try," he smiled with a look that made Eula sob.

With one hand she clung to his coat. The other outstretched as far as possible, just reached the wheel. They entered quiet water under shelter of the point, and Eula loosening her grasp upon the exhausted man, turned off the switch.

As the little boat grounded upon the beach the girl was out over the side, helping the staggering man to dry land.

He sank senseless upon the warm sand.

"Oh, I don't know what to do," the poor girl cried, frantically removing the cork jacket and his water-filled coat and shoes.

The grating of the boat's bow reminded her to secure it, and also to get the flask she always kept in the locker.

"Did I faint?" he asked in a dazed way.

"I thought you were dead," she sobbed.

"Why, don't worry like this, child; I was not in the water long enough. But some way in going over I hit my head and left hand. That bothered me about holding on, and after awhile my head felt queer."

"Do not talk," ordered Eula, brusque in her relief.

With great difficulty she helped him to a shady nook and made him comfortable with boat cushions.

"I must go out after your boat if you can stay alone," she said.

"Oh, don't be long," he cautioned. Presently she came back, triumphantly.

"You're a great girl on the water," he observed admiringly. "My name is Richards—I just came to the hotel this morning."

"You are making sport of me," cried Eula blushing furiously. "I really mean to make a thing of you in all my writing experience."

"I am wondering," ignoring her interruption, "if you can possibly be the sister of whom Dick Gardner is so proud?"

"That is my brother's name," she admitted.

"Then we are old acquaintances. Dick is coming down this afternoon—he'll tell you about me."

The young man seemed to be recovering very rapidly.

"I'm hungry as a bear," he admitted. "That is a good indication, isn't it, Miss Gardner?"

With much merriment Richards built a fire of the sticks Eula gathered. He opened cans from the linned provisions with which the locker was stocked and made coffee over the coals.

When they returned to the hotel under the breathless heat of the afternoon sun, the piazza was deserted.

"Look, look," breathed the dainty, charming girl gathered in the parlors that evening. "There he comes, isn't he stunning in evening clothes?"

"I wonder now if Eula doesn't regret her ride? She seems to have burned worse than usual."

Someone led the distinguished young artist forward. He greeted each girl with a kindly, sweeping look that she felt took in every detail of her appearance.

"Miss Gardner," he said, his eyes twinkling; "I believe we have met before!"

Eula's flushed face grew a little pale.

"Come out on the veranda," he begged. "I must plead my cause right away. My name is Richards—but that doesn't happen to be all there is of it. Indeed I did not mean to deceive you—only, I got tired of being Fenmore the artist, and like to be just a young man whom no one ever heard of."

Eula smiled as she walked away.

"Do you receive so much attention?" she asked audaciously.

"Everything seems to come my way—I'm not even safe upon the boundless deep!"

"Oh, I say, thank Heaven Fen is out of the way," observed Dick Gardner cheerfully, seeing Fenmore and his sister leaving the room. "Now there's some chance for the rest of us poor chaps!"

Fenmore moved some chairs into the moonlight.

"Miss Eula," he said, "will you take me on the water in the morning? It is absolutely unsafe for me to go alone, and I must get some sketches. In fact, I'd like to charter your boat for the season!"

"But my boat is out of order, Mr. Fenmore. It is liable to stop at any moment."

"Then we'll stock up that locker and take plenty of sketching materials."

"But my aunt objects to the water," murmured Eula suggestively.

The young man was silent for a moment, looking at her intently.

"Miss Eula," he said softly, leaning toward her, "I'll bribe Dick into going with us for a week. I'll give you seven days to—care as much as I do! Then we will qualify ourselves to dispense with a third person!"

Eula gasped.

"Do I take your breath? Well, you deprived me of mine this morning! Eula, I've adored you for months. I adored you this morning when you ran me down—you never did a cleverer thing! I'm so tired of my lonely little craft—I want you at the wheel—dear."

"I shall doubtless run over you every day," observed the girl softly.

"I have no doubt you will," answered Fenmore with conviction, but joyously.

USED THE AMERICAN TERM

Former Judge Shirley of Indiana Used Short and Ugly Word to Ten—and Was Thrashed.

Ex-Judge Shirley was one of the most interesting characters that ever practiced law in Indiana. He had been brought up in the south, and although a resident in the north for many years, still had a trace of the so-called southern dialect which made his characteristic and expressive utterances all the more striking. Having succeeded fairly well in his practice, he was the owner of a valuable farm or two. One day he had a misunderstanding with one of his tenants, in the course of which the tenant gave him a sound thrashing. The same afternoon the lawyer rode into M., bruised, bleeding and dirty.

"Hello!" said a friend, meeting him. "There must have been a runaway!"

"No, sub," replied the judge, grimly, "there was no runaway, sub; but there would have been if I could have got loose, sub!"

His tenant was arrested and tried for assault and battery. Of course, Judge Shirley was the principal witness.

"What did you say to this man, Judge Shirley?" demanded the attorney who appeared for the tenant.

"Well, sub," returned the judge, evasively, "he falsified, and I called his attention to it, sub!"

"And what did you say?" insisted the lawyer.

At last, cornered, and forced to answer directly, the old judge replied: "Well, your honah," turning from his questioner and addressing the court, "your honah, I may as well admit that I used the common American tuhm."—Youth's Companion.

MAINE IS TO BE INTERRED

Battleship's Remains Will Be Sunk in Gulf of Mexico, Near Cuba.

MARCH 1 IS THE DATE SET.

About a Third of the Vessel Has Already Been Sent to Its Watery Grave.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Gen. Bixby chief of engineers of the army, brings from Havana the report that unless unforeseen difficulties are experienced all that is left of the old battleship Maine will be floated out of Havana harbor by March 1 and sunk in the deep waters of the Gulf of Mexico, a few miles off the north coast of Cuba. In fact, Gen. Bixby says about a third of the ship—all of that part forward of the rent which severed the bow section—has been dumped into the sea without attracting attention. The metal was cut up by an oxy-acetylene jet into half-ton fragments, which were placed in scows and deposited about a mile off shore. This work is about completed and it is expected that within a week or ten days only the after part of the ship, which it is proposed to float away intact, will remain in the coffer-dam.

Some trouble may be experienced in floating the wreck. A water-tight bulkhead closes the great opening where the bow was cut off, but it is feared that the wreck may be held tenaciously in the grip of the hard clay bottom in which it has been imbedded for thirteen years. In that case, powerful water jets will be required to work under the hull and loosen it.

The after-turret of the ship has been raised from the decks and is ready for transfer to the shore. It has been given to the city of Havana and is to be erected as a monument in a public park. One of the masses now at Governor's Island and the other is aboard the collier Justin, awaiting transportation to the national cemetery at Arlington, where it will be placed over the graves of the victims of the Maine.

When the wreck is finally floated out to sea with ceremony and in the presence of a distinguished company, the giant coffer-dam will be removed and nothing will be left visible in Havana to mark the scene of the great catastrophe. Deeply imbedded in the bottom of the harbor will lie the inverted forward turret of the ship, with its ten-inch guns, which is not thought worth while to raise.

APPROPRIATION FOR SCHOOLS

Senate Passes Bill to Increase Efficiency of Educational Department.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 2.—After lengthy discussion the Senate Wednesday afternoon passed Senate bill No. 55, which provides for the inspection of schools and school funds of the state and to increase the efficiency of the Department of Education. It provides for an increase in the school appropriation of $10,000 and that the Superintendent of Public Instruction shall receive annually for the special duty the salary of $2,500. The bill provides for two assistants at salaries of $2,000 each and $5,000 for additional clerk hire.

After various arguments the Senate went into Committee of the Whole to hear Superintendent of Instruction Hamlett explain the bill. Supt. Hamlett said the purpose of the bill was to economize the school funds of the state. He said the last inspection showed that $100,000 was being wasted. If the bill passes Mr. Hamlett will go or send inspectors to each school, so it will be known just what is being done in every department of the schools.

An amendment of Senator Graham making the salary of each assistant $1,000 with a maximum of $2,000 for clerk hire prevailed, but all other amendments were voted down.

BUY YOUR GROCERIES AT FORBES' IN 1912.

Why not make this one of your "resolutions" for the new year? You want to save all you can, of course; that's why we suggest that you come and try trading with us once. There are other reasons too---and they are almost as important as the saving proposition. For instance---we have the newest and freshest stock of groceries in town, no old shelf-worn, dusty, dirty stuff; we buy in the largest quantities and pay spot cash for same. And as to our prices, although we "don't raise much fuss" about it, WE ALWAYS MEET COMPETITION on anything in our line. Now if you don't believe we do this, call us up at any time and see. We could give you many other reasons why we are "just as nice" as the other fellows, but we'd rather show you. So come give us a trial anyway.

HOB0 CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN WORKHOUSE

That is the Only Place for it, Declares the Mayor of Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., Jan., 31.—Having the unsolicited "honor" of a national "hobo" convention thrust upon the city, the municipal authorities are making extensive preparations to receive their unbidden guests. Foremost in the receiving line when the delegates begin to drop from the brake beams of freight cars tomorrow will be Chief of Police William Jackson, assisted by very stalwart policemen, who have been instructed to see that the visitors are given automobile rides in patrol automobiles to the nearest police stations.

They are next scheduled to call upon Police Court Judge Arthur Fricke, who will extend the hospitality of the city workhouse to them for a more or less extended period.

The convention is under the personal direction of J. Eads How, the "millionaire hobo," of St. Louis, and is scheduled to last four days, with the opening session tomorrow. How is at present in the city and is endeavoring to find lodging for 300 delegates.

"If there is any hobo convention to be held in this city it will be in the city workhouse," declared Mayor Hunt on giving his orders for the reception of the vagrants to Chief of Police Jackson.

Mayor Weakens.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 1.—The "Hoboes" of the United States opened a four-days' convention here today, the order for the arrest of the delegates, should they assemble, having been withdrawn by Mayor Henry T. Hunt.

Mayor Hunt, in withdrawing the order, said he would allow the men to assemble, but that they must hold their meetings in an orderly manner. If there was any disturbance or bad behavior on the part of the delegates they would be arrested, and those who could not prove to have a means of livelihood would be taken to the workhouse.
